RED MONEY

When an especially ruthless faction of the Russian Mob infiltrates New York City and South Florida in the late 1970s and takes over the lucrative drug business, the local police and even the FBI seem helpless to stop them. It is up to a spunky Romanian widow and a determined Irishwoman (a surprising pair) to go underground to undermine the mob and put a stop to a crime wave that is terrorizing Miami and has taken the lives of two loved ones. This unlikely "hit squad" discovers that the only one who can stop the mob is... the mob.

What Is Hers, the first of a series, introduces Dan Davies – a recently retired New York City detective. Davies, a widower, moves to an eastern Connecticut beach community to spend his senior years. A year after settling in to his new home, Dan becomes wrapped up in a series of crime-related incidents involving people who have become friends. Suddenly, the peaceful times he was enjoying are torn apart. The incidents, which occur at a pristine, waterfront family enclave, take a bizarre twist as Dan begins to suspect family members scheming against each other. But, who is scheming against whom?

"Terror on the Sound" - a mystery/thriller set on the eastern CT shoreline, is the second in the Dan Davies series. Who killed Senator Ted Driscoll? Retired detective Dan Davies is asked to find out, but his search turns up more questions than answers. Is the senator's death connected to a string of state-funded construction projects? Is the senator's son involved in the case? Who is the senator's mysterious "connection"? As corpses keep showing up and Dan digs ever deeper, he unearths a startling plot that threatens the nation's security.
